Action at RAAF Edinburgh by Rod Beames

At the invitation of the Battalion, I travelled to RAAF Base Edinburgh on a recent weekend to observe our soldiers in action

Its 35 years since I did any serious soldering so I was delighted to be invited to see what the soldiers of 10/27 Battalion get up to with their modern training.

This weekend saw 3 sections compete in numerous military activities, to decide the Top Section of the Battalion.

I started at the 25-metre range. No need to patch out targets here. The results are all but instantaneous.

Action at RAAF Edinburgh

35 years ago, there was no running on the range. Now they practice a sprint followed by some quick rounds onto the target.. A sense of urgency prevails.

There had been heavy rain on Friday night and the Edinburgh Training Area was damp to say the least. I was then shown what I would call some contact drills followed by casualty maintenance and evacuation. Previously the Forward Scout would yell "CONTACT FRONT" Now, with everyone on the intercom, the Section Commander controls the deployment and all you hear is gun fire and the whine of wounded enemy trying to escape.

It is still the trained infantryman who seizes and holds ground, and yes, its still Run, Down, Cry (its CRAWL you idiot: Editor), Observe, Aim, Fire, But the weaponry and protective armour is well advanced on what I knew.

Brigadier CP Moore presents the Winners Trophy to CPL KM Baldock

The soldiers spent the night in the field and I overheard that the RV point was the intersection of 2 creeks. What could possibly go wrong here?

Fortunately, no more rain fell and the soldiers remained comparatively dry.

The winning section, by a whole 0.15% was 1 Section, led by Cpl KM Baldock. Well done!

Acknowledgment of their win will be recorded and a "take home" shield provided by the Association.

After WW1 the British Commonwealth gifted a few hundred artillery and mortar pieces to various towns and boroughs throughout Australia as thanks for their support to the Allies during the Great War. One of those guns, a 77 mm Krupp German Artillery piece came to us via the Army Museum at Keswick, and after being faithfully restored to "battlefield" condition, is nearly ready for display. One would think this would be an easy task of picking a spot, putting up a shelter and installing the gun! Yes? No!

An area at the front of 10/27 Bn HQ at Keswick Barracks has been picked to display the WW1 German Artillery Gun

In the "old days" a bunch of us would have got together on a Saturday afternoon, and with the help of Johnnos tractor would have built a marvellous canopy, probably donated by Stratco or Bunnings, and after concreting it into the ground, would have followed up with a BBQ and a few beers. Then the following day we would have poured a concrete slab (courtesy of Readymix) and after trowelling the surface to a mirror finish would have ended the weekend with another BBQ and the rest of the slabs of beer, probably donated by Coopers.

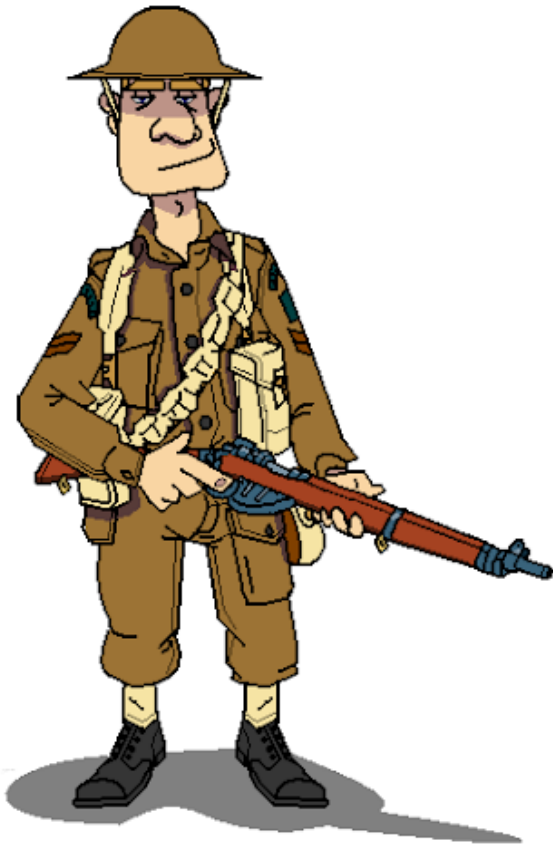

One thing has changed. Red Tape has now been introduced into our system and apparently we don't have enough red tape to do the job. So, the RSM goes to the Adjutant with a plan. The Adjutant signs off and sends the plan to the OPSO, who also signs off, and sends the plan to the CO who puts his tick of approval on it. From there it goes to the folk who maintain Keswick Barracks, who happen to be civilian contractors, and they contact the other civilian contractor who mows the grass and prunes the trees. Hang on! You haven't submitted an "ADA/77 Part A Form for Approval to Destroy Some Lawn." Where do we get one of those mate? You need to write to the Commissioner for Commonwealth Defence Lands and request the Book of Forms that lays out which form you need! So, we did that. In 2019! And last week the structure was finally erected, to the tune of several thousand Defence Dollars, and soon the new concrete slab will go down, to the tune of more Defence Dollars. And we didn't even get the Barbie dirty! Ain't progress grand? Now, where's that bloody Gun Rodney?

And STILL They Serve.

In 1976 Mimi Kusmuk (now Ewens) joined the Citizens Military Forces (CMF) now known as the Army Reserve, After recruit training with the WRAAC Mimi was posted to 10 Battalion RSAR where she found her way into the Signals Platoon. The following year she was joined by PTE Beryl Rowe and PTE Pat Bergeman, the only females in the Infantry Battalion. The rest is, as they say, history, and Beryl, now a Major, was recently presented with the Federation Star for 40 years service. (Beryl is married to member Mick Hudson) Mimi received her Federation Star a few years ago and is still serving as a Sergeant. That's over 90 years combined dedication. Ladies, thank you for your service.

How Things Have Changed?

Do you remember this place? Back in early 1972 about 400 young men spent a Saturday and Sunday at Torrens Training Depot filling out forms, having Psych Tests and Medicals and applying to join the Citizens Military Forces. 10 Battalion RSAR had just become a Training Battalion.

Over 350 were successful, and a few weeks later were issued with uniforms and rudimentary equipment and told to report for duty for a 14 day Recruit Course. We arrived back at TTD on a Friday night with our kit in sausage bags and big packs, and were issued with the wonderful L1A1 SLR, complete with magazine, bayonet and cleaning kit. We were told in no uncertain terms "Don't EFF around with it, until you're taught how to!" So we didn't, and boarded one of many buses formed up on the Parade Ground. Next stop? SMITHFIELD ARMY CAMP!

We learned later the camp was built before WW2 as an Army ordnance depot, but was decommissioned in 1949 and turned into a Migrant Hostel for the thousands of "New Chums" who were arriving from all over the world to start a new life in South Australia. They did it hard in those days, and although some improvements had been made to the buildings, it was no place to bring up children.

The area was closed as a migrant hostel in 1970 after the last few families were relocated to brand new housing trust homes in Elizabeth, and the Federal Government found a new use for it. They condemned it due to the poor hygiene, and turned it back into an Army Camp. It served another couple of years as a Recruit Camp for CMF soldiers until being closed again around 1973, and predominantly bulldozed.

I remember the experience well, arriving in the dark and being issued a wooden/canvas stretcher and a rubber groundsheet (used as a raincoat), and being allocated a room about 3 meters x 3 meters in a Nissen Hut. Another soldier and I shared the same room for the next two weeks, and became good friends. Our NCO was Corporal Col Douglas, who was quite a card and a wealth of outrageous information, and we became good friends for about 40 years until he passed away 4 years back. Our CSM was WO2 Joe Vella, and I, along with most of the recruits wanted to kill him! He was a hard, hard task master who never smiled, but a true soldier who I now call my friend. Our Platoon Commander was Lt Robin Kidney who sadly passed away last month, and his death prompted these memories about the Smithfield Camp.

After the 2 week course we had a Passing Out Parade back at TTD and most of the soldiers transferred to different Corps throughout SA, and I never saw most of them again. Do you have any memories or pics of your days at Smithfield? I'd love to see them!

Well, we finally said goodbye to our beloved Queen Elizabeth after her sudden passing in September. The TV and news media covered every aspect of her life, from her birth to her death, and regardless if you are a Monarchist or not, you must have felt some compassion for a lady who served her country and Commonwealth for her entire life. Rest in Peace Your Majesty.

The National Emergency Medal was destined to be awarded to all those from the Emergency Services and ADF who took part in fighting the fires of 2019/20, or supported those who fought the fires. This included soldiers from 9 Brigade in SA and our brave personnel from 10/27 Battalion who worked extremely hard in adverse conditions in the Adelaide Hills and Kangaroo Island for weeks after the fires, clearing burned land, repairing fences and rebuilding sheds and other structures. Now the word is getting around that the NEM will NOT be awarded to ADF personnel who didn't actually fight the fires! I'm sure our members are very interested to find out just why our soldiers who did what others couldn't do are now being denied this honour! Anyone?

Last month I posted details of the new membership fees, that took effect from the August AGM. There appears to be some confusion, so I shall endeavor to set it straight. If you are a Paid Life Member, and have previously paid $200 for your Life Membership, you DO NOT have to pay a further $100 to bring you up to the new fee. You are a Life Member and have paid your ONE OFF fee. All INVITED Life Members from now on will pay the new fee of $300. Annual Fees have risen to $30, and $15 for Associate Members. Serving ADF members still only pay $10 per year.

We have a great range of merchandise available for purchase, and they're designed to make you stand out in a crowd. We don't make much profit (around $5 per clothing item) but what we do make goes to support the serving soldiers, and to give you a FREE get-together at the end of the year. Help us support the Battalion by supporting us.

Capping off the "year we came back from COVID" will be our End of Year Lunch, details on Page 15. All food is FREE, and drinks are at generous Mess Prices, so come along and meet up with the people who make the Association, and the Battalion successful!

That's what I think, anyway!

Wayne and Robyn Burns at the gravesite of Frank Read, buried in the Warloy-Baillon Communal Cemetery Extension, France. Wayne says "The first British burial took place in the Communal Cemetery in October 1915, and the last on 1st July 1916. By that date Field Ambulances had come to the village in readiness for the attack on the German Front line, 8 kilometres away, and the Extension was begun. The fighting from July to November 1916 on the Northern part of the Somme front accounts for the majority of the burials; but a certain number are due to the German attack in the Spring of 1918, which reached the former British front line. There are now over 1,000, 1914-18 and a small number of 1939-45 casualties commemorated on this site."

1918.

In Jan he was released from hospital and re-joined the Battalion in Belgium on 9 Jan. Promoted to Lieutenant. He again got sick with colic and was admitted to Renal Colic 1 Red Cross Hospital. He had 3 weeks leave in England then re-joined unit.

Recommended for Military Cross, 16th Oct.” During the operations on the 5th October, 1918 in the attack on Montbrehain, East of Peronne, this officer was in charge of a company sent forward to reinforce the 6th Australian Infantry Brigade.

Owing to the tactical situation being obscure, this officer, together with an officer of the 24th battalion, and an NCO went forward into Montbrehain with a view of clearing up the situation before advancing his company. While making reconnaissance he was subjected to intense machine gun fire and considerable sniping. About 40 of the enemy were uncaptured, and Lt Read by skilful sniping, either killed or wounded 20 of them and cleared the village. He then, with the assistance of the other officer and the NCO gathered up a number of the 6th infantry Brigade men, and established them in posts on the outer edge of the village. As a result of this officer's splendid work and daring, it was not necessary to bring up his own company.

1919

10 Jan – returned to England for return to Australia

22 Apr – returned to Australia on HMAS Euripedes and disembarked in Adelaide Discharged from army 14th July, 1919 and later married Ethel Blanche in 1921.

King Charles III – Serving God and Country,

I read with intrigue, though not surprise, that the Coronation of King Charles III would be a “trimmed down affair” unlike that of King George VI and the late Queen Elizabeth II. Peers, it was suggested, could be allowed to “wear lounge suits or morning suits instead of luxurious ceremonial robes made with crimson velvet and ermine”.

One tradition that will remain is the anointing ceremony. Anointing ceremonies, usually performed with olive oil and chrism, mark an indelible change in the life of the recipient. Why olive oil? Have you ever tried to get an oil stain out of a good dress shirt!

The anointing of the monarch can happen only after the sovereign swears an oath to uphold the Church and the Law. It is a reminder that they will be called to account by a power greater than themselves. It is only following his anointing by the Archbishop that King Charles III will be invested with regalia and crowned before receiving the acclaim of his subjects.

As any RSM will tell you, ceremonial order is itself a great teacher. There is no greater example of this than the Catafalque Party.

While not holding myself up as a monarchist can I say that I like it!! I like that service of others is a sacred covenant sealed with holy oil. As religiosity in Australian society declines there is, ironically, an increase given to the role of chaplaincy in the ADF.

In my training it was made clear that, whether we find ourselves in regimental training or in operations, chaplains are positioned to serve all members, regardless of race, gender, sexual orientation or religion in order to enhance and sustain capability.

King Charles III; in the service of God and Country – and in that order.

Go Gently, Keep Well

CHIEF OF THE DEFENCE FORCE ORDER OF THE DAY

A MESSAGE FROM HIS MAJESTY KING CHARLES III

Please find a message below from His Majesty King Charles III expressing his deep gratitude and appreciation to the men and women of the Australian Defence Force.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE

On the occasion of my Accession as Sovereign, I would like to send to all who serve in the Australian Defence Force my heartfelt gratitude for the unstinting loyalty and professionalism you displayed throughout the reign of my beloved mother.

I know that The Queen took the greatest possible pride in the way servicemen and women from Australia performed their duties in many parts of the world, and often in the most testing and difficult circumstances.

I share my mother's high regard for your courage and commitment. I know, for my part, that you will continue to serve your country with the dedication and bravery which you have demonstrated with such success over the years.
